Greeley, of the Tribune, rejoices greatly over the recent Abolition victories in Obio and Pennsylvania. If it were only a party victory, this jubilation would be in order; for Greeley & Co. have won a party triumph. But upon the theory of Greeley & Co., it seems to us the result is nothing to cheer the heart of a patriot. These Abolition'sts have persistently held that their opponents were rebels; that they were opposed to this Union and willing to let it slide. Their whole party ammunition has been drawn from this magazine. Their opponents are opposed to the Union, ready to surrender to the rebels, and rather disposed to help them, giving them aid and comfort. Now, if this theory be true, the poll-books show badly-about 200,000 rebels in Ohio and 250,000, more or less, in Pennsylvania! It is not much consolation that there is a small per cent. of a majority of Union men. Small majorities are not much in revolutions. These majorities have not only to conquer the rebels in arms, but also these heavy minori ties at home, of men who, in the vocabulary of the majority, are even worse than rebels. To be sure, here at home, this view of the case startles no one, for the charge made and the whole theory is only a party lie, and everybody knows it; but if the charge persistently made by these Abolitionists is be lieved in other countries, the result will be anything but encouraging to the Union

The truth is, there is no party North that is not for the Union. The only difference is in the means of preserving it. Because the minority hold that the means of these Abolitionists are not adopted to the end, they are called These Abolitionists assume their judgment as to the means infallibly right, and all who do not indorse and applaud them are traitors. On this distinction they claim all the loyalty and all the patriotism. There is no doubt of their devotion to their party means to put down the rebellion; but their devotion to the Union is a new agony. If they are zealous for the Union, if they do believe the Union a glorious Government worth fighting for, that conviction is a late one with them. They didn't think so before the war. Our Government, in their opinion, was vicious and could not stand. It contained a great iniquity, which made it cursed of God and offensive to all good men. What has induced these men to fall so much in love with the Union, and denounce men as Disunionists whom they used to denounce as Union-savers with sundry sneers?

In the meantime, Greeley & Co. should now climb down and admit that the contest was on the means of preserving the Union, not the end; that their opponents are as patrictic as their opponents are as patrictic as their opponents are as patrictic as their party when she reflects of the Alabama, fitted out in a British port, manned by British seamen, armed by British gans, and ever since roving party schemes have got a majority. They had ponents must have a bad record if it is not better than any these radicals can show Whilst Democrats had power they preserved this Union in peace. Now their opponents bave the responsibility; let them boast when they have accomplished the end. Until then they should be modest, if they could live and Intelligence received in this country goes to show that, although the French have succeeded in seizing the Capital of Mexico, they have by no means overcome the Mexican people. They do not subscribe to that policy which has sold the country to the French, but are arousing the people everywhere against the invaders. It is evident that the French will still have to cope with a spirit of resistsince and determination far more powerful than they have yet met with. In all places not occupied by the French in force, recruiting is going on with rapidity, and every effort to organize the new levies is being made, They are laying aside their sectional and political quarrels, and are banding together to support their Government. They have dispatched a Minister Pienipotentiary to our Government, to look to the interests of the Republic with this its most natu ral ally. It is likely that Napoleon, who seems to act upon the policy that victory is bound to his chariot wheels, will find that he has engaged in a rash and precipitate enterprise, and that he will find his Moscow in Mexico No one can go long about the world righting wrongs and redressing financial injuries, as Napoleon has dene. without coming at last into collision with some one as prejudiced and as strong as himself, who will not allow Napoleon to be the sole judge of what is right. All history teaches that to suppress and sub jugate a people united and determined in their resistance, is almost impossible. The Greeks and Persians, the Dutch and Philip of Spain, the Americans and the British, the Spaniards and the elder Napoleon, all go to prove that when a people are united in resistance to oppression or invasion, their strength is incalculable.

Every weapon in such times is used, and used with a ferocity that makes us shudder.

He believes in his destiny. It superinduces that rashness which has so often been the destruction of conquerors before him. He has now undert ken the desperate task of providing a government for a people who are almost unanimously opposed to accepting any such favor from him. They feel that they have been doc ived and sold to their enemies by the socalled convention of notables, and the betrayal has aroused their indignation rather than cowed their spirit. Then also they must feel that they have an ally in this country, which must eventually interfere, and which cannot interfere without driving France out of Mexico. On the 26th of September Earl Russell was entertained at Blairgowrie, Scotland, by a number of his friends, and made a speech of interest and importance on the foreign relations of Great Britain, and especially on her relations to the United States. This speech is long, but its importance warrants us in giving its main portions. Referring to Poland, he said "that neither the obligations, the honor, nor the interests of England require that we should go to war for Poland." Of the Mexican question

If the people of Mexico approve the inter-If the people of Mexico approve the intervention which has taken place, if they like to set up a monarchy in Mexico, and if they all willingly obey it; if they are enabled to establish peace and order in Mexico—on these conditions, I say, with all my heart, let them have it, and I wish them success. [Cheers.] But if they do not choose it; if the people of Mexico wish for the form of Government which, for many years, they have adopted, why, then, I egain say we have no business to contradict them in that respect; and that with the people of Mexico, however irregular their contradict them in that respect; and that with the people of Mexico, however irregular their form of gevernment has been, and however the country has been deformed by acts of rob bery and violence, yet I do not think we ought to interfere about their own choice of their own form of government.

But the main point of interest is his disussion of American affirs. Upon this subject he speaks as follows!

THE REBELLION IN AMERICA.

Well, gentlemen, I come now to another nestion, a question interesting to us all, a question, a question interesting to us all, a question on which I must beg for your atten-tion, because I wish to explain some circum-stences in which the character of this country, f think, has been maligned. I am speaking of what has occurred in what a few years ago were the United States of America. A few rights which at all times are given to those who, by their numbers and importance, or by the extent of the territory they possess, are entitled to these rights. [Cheers] Well, it was said we ought not to have done that because they were a community of slavelonged cheers. For my own part: I consider disgraces humarity. [Cheers.] But, then, when we are treating of the relations which we bear to a community of men, I doubt whether it would be expedient of useful for humanity that we should letroduce that new cause of humanity would be served by our was said that these Confederate States were rebels—rebels agairst the Union. Perhaps, rentlemen. I am not so nice as I ought to be on he subject. But I recollect that we re-elled against Charles I. [a laugh]; we rebelled against James II, and the people of New Eagland, not content with these two re-bellions, rebelled against George III. [Hear, bellions, rebelliod against George III. [Hear, and laughter.] I am not saying, now, whether all these rebe lions were justifiable or whether they were wrong. I am not saying whether the present rebellion in the Southern States is a justifiable insurrection, or is a great fault or a great crime. But I say that the mere fact of rebollion is not, in my eyes, a crime of so deep a dye that we must renounce all fellowship and communion and all relationship with those who have been guilty of rebellion. [Loui charing] But, certainly; if I look to the declarations of those New England orators—and I have been reading lately, if not the whole, yet a very great part; of the very long speech of Mr. Sumner on the subject, delivered at New York—I own I cannot but wonder to see these men, the offs spring, as it were, of three rebellions, as we are the offsprieg of two rebellions, really is a justifiable insurrection, or is a great fault 4th. Keep the atmosphere of the milk room perfectly fresh and pure—free from regulables of every kind, and at as even temperature as possible. It should not be warmer than 65 degrees. Open the windows at night and close them in the morning, during warm weather. As soon as the milk coagulates, or just before the change occurs, it is ready to be churned or skimmed. Some of the best butter. plaint eame this time from those so called Confederate States, who said that we had, contrary to the Declaration of Paris, con-trary to the general international law, per-ing at the law of nations, it was a blockade; it was a blockade which we, as a great be lig-erent Power, in former times should have ac-knowledged. We ourselves had had a blockin ade of upwards of two thousand miles; and it reason, I confess, that weighed with me—our people were suffering, and suf-fering very greatly, for the want of the material which was the great support of their industry. It was a question of self interest whether we should not break that blockade; but, in my opinion, the name of England would have been forever infamous, if for the sake of interests of any kind we had violated the great laws of neglacy was sake of interests of any kind we had violated the general laws of nations and made war with those slaveholding States of America against the Federal States. [Hear, hear.] And, gentlemen, I am not speaking the sentiments which are peculiar to myself, or to those who have to immediate int rest in the question, but these are, I am convinced, the sentiments of that noble hearted people of Lancenshire who have lived and flourished by

LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY: TUESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 20, 1863. a thousand persons here may go out as laborer to the Federal States, and in the next place thousand muskets may go out in another ship and when they arrive in America these thou sand laborers, having had an understanding before, may make a formal engagement and be armed with these thousand muskets; thoug if that had been done in the territory of the Queen, and on the soil of this country, it would have been an offense. There are other questions with regard to ships that have lately been prepared in this country, because these ships are not like ships which receive the usual equipment known in wars in times past, but they are themselves without any further armament, formed for acts of off-use and war. They are steam rams, which migh be used for the purposes of war without ever touching the shores of the Confederate ports. Well, gentlemer, to permit ships of this kin knowingly to depart from this country, not to enter into any Confederate port, not to enter into any Confederate port, not enter into the port of a belligerent, would, you see, expose our good faith to great sus sion; and I feel certain that if, during our wa with France, the Americans had sent line of battle ships to break our blockade at Brest whatever reasons they might have urged in support of that we should have considered it a violation of neutrality. Such is the spirit in which I am prepared to act. Everything that the law of nations requires, everything that our law, that the Foreign Eulistment act requires, I am prepared to do, and even, if it should be proved to be necessary for the preservation of our neutrality that the sanction of Parliament should be asked to further measures; in short, to sum up, Her Majesty' Government are prepared to do everything that the duty of neutrality requires—every thirg that is just to a friendly nation, taking as a principle that we should do to others a we should wish to be done to ourselves [Lond cheers.] But this we will not do—we will not adopt any measure that we think it.

will not adopt any measure that we think to be wrong. We will not yield a jot of British law or British right in consequence of the So matters went on for several days, and we we down that has occurred in what a few years ago we were cauting in the property of that each in the context of the meaning of what has occurred in what a few years ago we refore cauting in the property of that each in the context of the same and the same and the context of the same and the same and the context of the same and t stole to lock on the aprising of a community of five millions of people as a mere petty insurrection [hear, hear], or as not having the rights which at all times are given to those which contained, and had for many years which the property of the people as a supreme Court in the United States which contained, and had for many years which contained and of as they are not the action of the people and the people are not all the people and the people are not all the contained, men as learned and of as high re-utation in the law, and of as unsullied rep utation for integrity as any that have sat in our English Courts of justice, and that we ought to wait patiently for the decision of those tribunals. Now, what is fifty stirpfise to find, and what would be your surprise to find, that Mr. Sumner is so prejudiced that he brings these declarations of mine against me, saying that I have diffinished the reputation of the American Courts, and that I showed myself biseed can just the Rederal States by the declarations of the Rederal States by the declaration. ed against the Federal States by the declar prison against the rectanguage by the nechar-tion I then made in Parliament. [A gentle-ping from the Southern States among the com-pany here eliculated: "He is not to be believpurphere ejaculated? We have never adopted it bit the trace of the have not adopted it his the trace of the same not adopted it his the trace of humanity would be served by our adoption of it. [Hear, hear?] Well, then, it is the multiple of the wrong; somewe think them date in the wrong; some-times they say we are quite in the wrong; but we discuss them fairly, and with regard to the Secretary of State I see no complaint to make. I think he weighs the disadvant-ages and difficulties of our situation in a very air and equal balance. But there are othe fair and equal balance. But there are others, and Mr. Sumner is one of them, his speech being an epitome almost of all that has been constituted in the American press, by whoma cur conduct is very differently judged. With regard to all these matters there are difficult questions; we may have reason to complain in some instances, and the Federal Republic of America may have reason to complain also. But let us recollect that we are, as I have said, descended from the same ancestors that in the courts of justice in America the common law of England is constantly studied, and the decisions of our great Judges constantly re-ferred to as decisions to be there respected; that our Shakspeare and our Milton are to that our shaspeirs and our mitter are to them classical books as they are to us; that we have the same inheritance of freedom; that many of our institutions, as you may see by reading that excellent book of M. De Tocqueville on America, are identical; that the same spirit of liberty animates us both; that we, after our revolutions, chose a constitutional monarchy as the best form of gov-ernment, and they, after their revolutions chose a republic; but that thus united, having the same spirit of law, having the same spirit of literature; having the same spirit of freedom, we ought, when this unbappy contest is over, to embrace one another as friends, and that we in the Old World and they in the New ought to be the lights to promote the civilization of mankind. [Loud cheers.] Now, gentlemen, with these feelings, I own I almost lose my patience when see men, in what is called an oration, heaping up accusation after accusation, and mis-representation after misrepresentation, all tending to the bloody end of war be-tween these two nations. I cannot but say, are they not satisfied with the blood that has been shed in the last two years, with has been shed in the last two years, with that field of Gettysburg, where ten thousand corpses of men inest of them in the prime of manhood, were lying stretched on the ground? Are they not satisfied with that bloodshed, but would they seek to extend to the nations of Europe a new contest in which fresh sacrifices are to be made in human life, of human interest, and of human happiness? [Cheers.] Gentlemer, I trust that that will not be the case. I know, at least, that my efforts such as they are—weak they may be. efforts, such as they are—weak they may be, ineffectual I hope they will not be—will be directed to keep peace between these two nations, and to co everything which I think is just and right toward these people; and ready to meet attack if we are unjustly attacked, ready to bear our part in the contest, if contest there must be, but yet believing that we ought to make every effort that all these various conflicts may end in peace, in union and in fricedship, I shall at all events have the consciotsness that I have done my best to preserve peace between these mighty nations. [Loud cheers.] Gentlemen, it is a great subject; it affects the people of this fart of the world and of America; it affects the fuof the world and of America; it affects the future state of civilization; it affects the well-being of the black race, whom it was the crime of our ancestors to introduce to Ameri-

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. The information from the Army of the Potomacto-day is to the effect that reports came in froni our cavalry yesterday evening that the enemy had missed a force at Manassas. There were vague reports that the enemy was straightened for supplies, and having signally failed to secure them from Gen. Meade, has again turned his attention and face toward the Lower Shenandonh Vailey, and to our positions on the Baltimore and Ohio Rilroad. Appearances last night in the vicinity of Appearances last night in the vicinity of Chantilly indicated the presence of a heavy rebel force, but Gen Sedgewick drove them ack to Frying Pan from his front.

Later information up to noon says our cavalry reconnoissance went out as far as one mile from Bristow's, but found nothing but a few robel scouts. Rumors continue to multiply to the effect

MRS. J. A. BEATTIE. Washington County Farm for Sale.

I PROPOSE TO SELL SIX HUNDRED acres of the land upon which I now live turnpike road leading from Lebanon to Springfield, six miles from the former and three from the latter place, and is only 40 minutes' drive to Lebanon, connecting with he railroad leading for Louisville and Nashville. There is now under rapid construction an addition I railroad connecting Lebanon with Cincinnati and Knoxville, Tennessee, which it is said will be completed within one year. In addition to these facilities there is a net work of turnpike roads leading in every direction through the country. This land is stuated in the midst of a fertile and well cultivated country, and there is no part of Kentucky better adapted for g ass, hemp corn, and tobacco. The farm is celebrated for its abundance of stock water at all seasons of the year, there being a stream of water running through the center, which is well supplied with springs, so that at any time it is only necessary to open gates to allow any part of the farm to have water accommodations. There is an ample supply of timber for all purposes. The entire wood land, about 250 acres, and about 40 acres in timothy for meadow. The whole of the grass lands have now upon them a fine crop for the coming winter.

There is upon the premises a two-story dwelling with 8

The Mexican deputation to tender the crown of Mexico to the Archduke Maximilian was received by the arch duke on the third.

Maximilian in his reply said he must make his acceptance of the throne depend on a pleiseite of the whole country. And it should be his duty to ask for guards, which are indispensable to secure Mexico against dangers which threaten her.

Should these guarantees be obtained, and the universal vote of the nation be given in my favor, I am ready to accept the crown subject to the approval of my brother.

It is believed that the conditions of the Arch Duke's acceptance of the crown are the same as those named in October, 1861, according to which he considers the co-operation of France and England to be the only means by which order can be established, and that a free manifestation of the wish of the whole nation is absolutely necessary.

DR. JOHN BULL'S COMPOUND

The Latest and Most Important Discovery of the 19th Century.

NO MAN S NAME IS MORE INTIMATELY CONnected with the history of the Materia Medica of the United States, or more favorably known as a ploneer in med cal discovery, than that of Dr. JOHN BULL, of Louisville, ky. His ininitable preparation of Sarsaparilia, has long stood at the head of the various compounds of that valuable drag. His Compound Progrand, or Wild Chranat, has become a household word through out the West and South; and bis Worm Lozerges, in DYSPEPSIA, And its attendant train of symptoms, it acts more like a charm than a medicine. There is nothing in the whole range of the Materia Medica, that can for a moment bear a comparison with it in this disease.

A full account of this wonderful plant may be found in the 11th edition of the U. S. Dispensatory, pages 1387 and 1388. Aseries of experiments in which Dr. Bull has been for years engaged, has just been brought to a successful termination, and he is now enabled to offer to the public a combination of Cedron with other approved tonics, the whole preserved in the best quality of copper-distilled Bourbon whisky, which he is confident has no equal in the world.

He might turnish a volume of certificates, but the public have long since learned to estimate such things at their true value. The safest plan is, for everyone to test for himself the virtues of a new medicine. Give the Cedron Bitters,

One trial and you will never use any others.

It is not necessary to publish a long list of diseases for which the Cedros Blitters are a specific.

In all diseases of the STOMACH, BOWELS, LIVER OR KIDNEYS;

In all affections of the BRAIN DEPENDING UPON DERANGEMENT OF THE STOMACH OR BOWELS;

In GOUT, RHEUMATISM AND NEURAL-GIA;

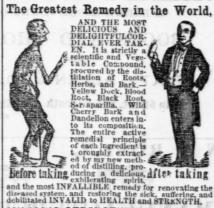

And in FEVER AND AGUE;

It is destined to supersede all other remedies. It not And in FEVER AND AGUE; this destined to supersede all other remedies. It not only cures these dileases, but it prevents them. A wine glass foll of the Bitters taken an hour before each meal, will obviate the lit effects of the most unhealthy climate, and screen the person taking it against disease under the most trying exposure.

TISDEL & NASH'S Patent Attachment

FOR BURNING IN FLUID LAMPS. PATENTED MARCH 24, 1863,

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT.

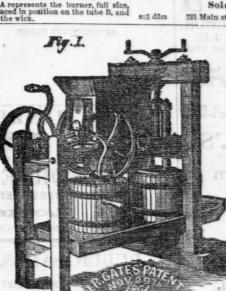

If accomplishes the object very perfectly, and dispenses with the and ance and expense of the inconvenient chimney. A free and steady by without smoke, is obtained, when a good quality of oil is used. The law tion consists in applying the metallic burner, to the tube of the Lamp; burner is simply slipped over this, and case be easily adjusted on any lamp; thus equipped, coal oil can be burned in it as readily as fluid, burner should be allowed to proceed above the top of the tube a dists equal to the diameter of it, or about 3-16 of an inch, and the wings, compose the attachment, must be separated, so as to allow the division to be equal to the size of the tube. These lamps are very convenient for he hold purposes, as they can be carried in the hand in granghts or curren air without being extinguished.

"It is an admirable invention, and effects the purpose in the simplest." Roch

Other journals speak in like terms, and the most flattering testimonials are being constantly received from agents and others as to their efficiency and economy; in fact they have earned for themselves a wide spread reputation
